Warmer summer months are the time for getting outdoors, enjoying the warm weather and relaxing in the sunshine.

The summer heat can affect us all but some people are at greater risk of harm from it:

- Older people, especially aged over 75
- People who live on their own
- Those with pre-existing health conditions
- Babies and young children
- People who spend a lot of time outside or in hot places.

This booklet has been produced to share summer wellbeing hints and tips. We also want you to know that Dudley Council along with other local organisations has a range of services and schemes to help people keep safe, well and happy. It's important for people to know where to get help and support, so no one suffers unnecessarily or feels isolated.

Hopefully everyone will enjoy a sunny and warm summer this year. To keep you and your family safe and well, here is some useful advice.

Stay cool and hydrated

It's really important during warmer weather to keep hydrated.

- Top up regularly with water to avoid feeling tired and confused and cut back on alcohol and caffeinated drinks.
- Healthy adults should aim to drink 1.5 to 2 litres (6-8 glasses) of liquid each day.
- Encourage young children to drink regularly as they may not recognise they are thirsty.
- Breastfeeding mums should drink plenty of fluids to stay hydrated. Breastfed babies do not need water as well as breastmilk, but they may feed more than usual. Bottle fed babies can have cooled boiled water throughout the day.
- Eating cold foods like salads and fruit which have higher water content can help you stay hydrated.

Other ways to stay cool during the summer:

- Take cool baths or showers.
- Keep your home cool - shade or cover windows in sunny rooms and keep windows closed during the day. Open windows when it is cooler outside.
- Turn off lights and electrical equipment when not in use, they generate heat.

Keep sun safe

Look after your skin, especially during the summer months.

- Avoid sunburn by using sunscreen (at least factor 30) and reapply regularly. Cover up with loose-fitting cotton clothing, a wide brimmed hat and sunglasses. Many brands produce sunscreen specifically for babies and children which are less likely to irritate the skin.
- Sunburn increases your risk of skin cancer. If you have lots of moles or freckles your risk of getting skin cancer is higher than average, so take extra care. Sunburn doesn't just happen on holiday, you can burn in the UK even when it's cloudy. Use sunscreen all year round.
- There's no safe or healthy way to get a tan. A tan doesn't protect your skin from the sun's harmful effects.
- Spend time in the shade when the sun is strongest, usually between 11am and 3pm in the UK.
- Babies under 6 months old should be kept out of direct sunlight.
- Older babies should also be kept out of sun as much as possible especially when the sun is at its strongest.
- Do not use a blanket or a sheet to drape over a pushchair. On a hot day this will significantly increase the temperature inside the pushchair - possibly to levels that could cause your baby to overheat. Instead attach a parasol or sunshade to your baby's pushchair to keep them out of direct sunlight.

Manage your long-term health conditions

It's important that anyone living with a long-term health condition, such as breathing conditions, heart problems or diabetes, is able to manage the condition.

This is especially so during warmer weather when people can struggle in the heat, which can make health conditions worse.

- Keep medicines below 25°C or in the fridge (read the storage instructions on the packaging).
- Many prescription medicines can reduce people's tolerance to heat. Keep taking your medicines and seek medical advice.
- Take extra care to keep cool.

Swimming outdoors

If you decide to swim outdoors to keep cool, make sure it's a safe place to swim, look out for warning signs and hidden dangers.

Young children need constant supervision around water as they are especially at risk - they can drown in less than 2 inches (6 centimetres) of water. That means drowning can happen where you'd least expect it. If you're not within arm's reach you have gone too far.

If you fancy a dip, then choose one of the council's leisure centres, in Dudley, Halesowen and Stourbridge, which all have pool lifeguards and offer family swimming sessions as well as swimming lessons.

Caring and looking out for others

If you are caring for someone or know someone who lives alone, who is older, unwell or vulnerable, check in on them during periods of extreme heat and make sure they can keep cool. Seek medical help if needed.

As a carer don't forget to look after yourself, follow the advice in this booklet and contact Dudley Carers Hub for advice and information.

If you're out and about, never leave anyone in a closed stationary vehicle.

Heat exhaustion and heatstroke

If you or someone else feels unwell, dizzy, irritable, faint, tired, very thirsty or, if you have painful muscle spasms when the weather is hot, this could be a sign of heat exhaustion.

Heat exhaustion is not usually serious if you can cool down within 30 minutes. To cool down rest immediately in a cool place, drink plenty of water and use rehydration solutions if suitable. However, if you are unable to cool down after 30 minutes this could turn into heatstroke.

Heatstroke is an advanced form of hyperthermia that can be life-threatening. Look out for body temperatures over 40 degrees Celsius/104 degrees Fahrenheit, headaches, nausea, dry skin and no sweating, agitation and heavy breathing.

The symptoms are often the same in adults and children, although children may become floppy and sleepy. Heatstroke needs to be treated as an emergency. Get help if you still feel unwell after 30 minutes of symptoms starting.

Food safety

Summer is a great time to enjoy a BBQ with family and friends. Stay safe and remember that warm weather and outdoor cooking can create the perfect conditions for bacteria to grow. Food poisoning can be avoided by following good food hygiene practices.

Here's some tips to protect you and your guests.

- Wash your hands and clean your utensils and surfaces, effective cleaning gets rid of bacteria.
- Don't mix utensils used to prepare raw food with those used for ready-to-eat dishes.
- Never wash raw chicken or any other meat - washing raw meat risks splashing germs onto your hands, utensils and worktops.
- Frozen meat tends not to cook through thoroughly on a BBQ. Plan ahead, defrost food overnight in the fridge, making sure juices don't leak onto other food.
- Even if you've recently used your barbecue, it's good practice to clean and dry the grill beforehand.
- If you're using a charcoal barbeque, make sure the coals are hot enough before you start cooking.

Cross-contamination is most likely to happen when raw food touches or drips onto ready-to-eat food, utensils, or surfaces. Prevent cross-contamination by:

- storing raw meat separately from ready-to-eat foods
- using different utensils, plates and chopping boards for raw and cooked food
- washing your hands after touching raw meat and before you handle ready-to-eat food
- Marinades are a popular way to flavour food at a BBQ. You should not reuse a sauce or marinade on cooked or ready-to-eat food, which has already been used on raw meat.

It's important to cook food at the right temperature and for the correct length of time to kill any harmful bacteria. Different types of meat will have different cooking requirements. Consider cooking chicken and pork in the oven first, then giving it a final finish on your barbecue.

Keep chilled food out of the fridge for the shortest time possible during preparation. You may also want to keep any perishable foods, and food usually kept in the fridge, chilled and out of the sun until serving.

If you have food left over, cover it. Cool cooked food quickly at room temperature, then place them in a fridge or cool bag within one to two hours and consume within 48 hours. If you're reheating anything, only reheat it once and make sure it's piping hot before serving.

Childhood vaccinations

Vaccination is the most important thing we can do to protect ourselves and our children against ill health. It is important that vaccines are given on time for the best protection, but if you or your child has missed a vaccine, contact your GP to catch up. To prepare your child for their admission to school, college or university in September make sure they are up-to-date with the vaccinations they need.

4-in-1 pre-school vaccine

The 4-in-1 pre-school vaccine is offered to children from the age of three years and 4 months to boost their protection against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

At the same time children can have the first of two doses of the MMR vaccine. This protects your child against measles, mumps and rubella (German measles).

MenACWY vaccine

The MenACWY vaccine is offered to teenagers in school years nine and ten to guard against meningococcal disease (meningitis and septicaemia).

For more information on all the vaccines you can receive visit www.nhs.uk and search vaccinations

Stay informed about the weather

The UK is prone to extreme weather, from heavy rain to heatwaves. Keep up-to-date with weather and temperature updates.

Go to www.dudley.gov.uk and search for 'severe weather advice'

Check the weather forecast at www.metoffice.gov.uk so you can plan ahead whatever the weather.

Keep safe and secure at home

It's tempting during the summer to keep windows and doors open but remember to keep your home safe and secure.

If you are going on holiday or on day trips, keep your home looking occupied.

Fire safety

Reduce the risk of fires outside by safely putting out cigarettes and throwing rubbish away.

Don't leave glass bottles lying on the ground - the sun's rays reflect through the glass and can start a fire. If you light up a barbecue, never use petrol or paraffin. Never leave it unattended and keep a bucket of water or sand nearby for emergencies.

Safe and Well

Safe and Well visits are carried out in your home by firefighters. They can advise and educate on safety at home, with particular focus on our most vulnerable residents.
